A grid of 30 five-pointed stars, each representing a day of the month of Ramadan. Each star is divided into five sections by its points, with the following labels: 'الفجر' (Fajr) at the top point, 'الظهر' (Zuhr) at the top-right point, 'العصر' (Asr) at the bottom-right point, 'المغرب' (Maghrib) at the bottom point, and 'العشاء' (Asha) at the top-left point. The number of the day is written in the center of each star. The stars are arranged in a grid that is 6 rows high and 5 columns wide, with the last row containing only 4 stars. The days are numbered 2 through 30, with day 1 missing from the grid.
